

Use your HSA to pay for qualified medical expenses

Your health savings account (HSA) can be used to pay for many covered health care services for yourself, your spouse and even tax dependents. It can also be used to pay for many other health care services and items that may not be covered by your health plan, as long as they qualify.

This is not a complete list. The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) decides which expenses can be paid from an HSA and can change the list at any time.

What is a “qualified” medical expense?

A qualified medical expense is a health care service, treatment or item that the IRS says can be purchased without having to pay taxes.

Keep your receipts.

Keep all records of your medical expenses in case of an IRS audit. That way, you can prove that your HSA was used for qualified expenses.

You can find more information on HSAs and qualified medical expenses at the government website, IRS.gov.

Know the penalty

If an HSA is used to pay for care or services that are not a “qualified medical expense,” you will have to pay a 20 percent penalty, plus taxes on the money spent. For example, if the expense was $100, the penalty would be another $20, plus taxes. This penalty does not apply if you are 65 or older.
